

TJ Maxx

1.

I had to go to TJ Maxx. My boyfriend and I just broke up and I needed a little pick me up. So.... I found this outfit. Perfect fit, perfect color.... he HATES orange. Besides, it was a great deal.... over half off. And if I didn't get it, the thought of some stranger walking around in my clothes kind of weirds me out. Plus, I hadn't done laundry in a month. So, I literally had to buy it. And it was orange, my signature color. Thanks TJ Maxx!

2. Cat Monologue

MILO

Don't look at me like that. I can always tell when you humans are having a bad day. Like it's my fault for sleeping. Do I give you a hard time for only sleeping 8 hours? Or for sleeping when you should be feeding me? No. So leave me alone.

3. Today, parents have a lot of hard choices, pay the phone bill or pay the doctor. Fill the fridge or fill a prescription. But there's a choice that can make life easier—calling 1-877-KIDS NOW. That's because every state now offers low cost and free health coverage for kids. Even working families can get!

4.

I decided long ago that I am not going to eat my way through every fast-food restaurant and pizza joint. I eat healthy. After all, it does catch up with you. Lean Cuisine meals offer a healthy alternative with so many delicious meals that I never get bored. It's not just lean, it's cuisine.

5.

Can we talk for just a minute? It's a little embarrassing to talk about, but I have a little problem. Well actually it is a big problem. You see, I have this huge growth on my ear that I can't get rid of. It's a cell phone. It is always there. Every time you see me you will see it sticking straight out of my ear. The problem is that with the growth came an even bigger bill. That's why I switched my service to Verizon. Now I have a growth I can afford.